

BEWARE

There are numerous individuals during lock work and they're NOT locksmiths. Some are scam artists and some have good intentions, either one will cost you more money than it should.

The State of North Carolina requires that ALL locksmiths be licensed, not the business but the individual.

An apprentice can work under the supervision of a licensed locksmith.

Upon your request the locksmith must show you their picture ID with their name and license number, issued by the North Carolina Licensing Board.

Also there's a website (www.nclocksmithboard.org) you can visit for a complete listing of North Carolina locksmiths or to file a complaint.
